

VIBRO-ACOUSTICS®

A Swegon Group company

Industry News

Markets Equipment Catalog Design Tools

Visit our Website

Latest News

Better Ventilation Pays Off In Productivity, Health

Metal Shingle Benefits

Groups Ask OSHA for National Heat-Protection Standard

Scientists create innovative new 'green' concrete using graphene

US lumber producers see huge opportunity, rush to expand

App uses virtual reality to address fall protection

Proposed Florida MLB stadium's translucent roof alone could cost \$276M

Vibro-Acoustics Lay-in Service: Big Time Saver

The Vibro-Acoustics Lay-in Service provides consultants with free application and selection assistance for Noise Control products. On average, consultants who work with one of the 20+ application engineering specialists save 16 hours of design time per project. With over 50 years of experience, Vibro-Acoustics' application engineering team utilizes the Integrated Systems Approach to provide a project-specific solution based on the actual requirements of the project.

Read More

System Can 3-D Print an Entire Building

Tech could enable faster, cheaper, more adaptable building construction

The list of materials that can be produced by 3-D printing has grown to include not just plastics but also metal, glass, and even food. Now, MIT researchers are expanding the list further, with the design of a system that can 3-D print the basic structure of an entire building.

Read More